Greetings!

Thank you, Bill, for your call re the night shift job. Your people did the usual ultra professional job getting on the job and our power restored and checking out the building. It gave me a start to look into the manhole and see Ben working with his feet in a puddle of water; and I am especially proud of his part in the whole project.

Thank you, Jim, for the heads up on the Suite 350 electrical work estimate. There is no need for you to provide me anything in writing. I also appreciate your talking with me about the HVAC time clock pins and turning on the boiler and checking Suite 150 for thermostat health and heat balance.

PG&E was scheduled to update our gas meter today, but I see no evidence any work was done. So my best idea is to give them Monday but, in any event, you start the boiler late Monday so we will have heat to balance Suite 150 on Tuesday.

Thank you
